THE ASTOUNDING ENDEAVOURS OF FANTOMALLARD
— GENTLEMAN THIEF —
Hidden in the identity of Lord John Quackett, inept and cowardly nobleman, lies Fantomallard, the most famous gentleman thief of 1920's Duckburg, and whose Diary would later inspire a certain Donald Duck to be The Duck Avenger!

"Excuse me, my good man, could you please point me to Ducklas Fairbarks' dressing room?"

"Over theeeere!"

"I'm going to Pollywood, dear! I'm dead certain that Fantomallard will try to steal the Emerald!"

"Don't you dare come back without Ducklas Fairbarks' autograph!"

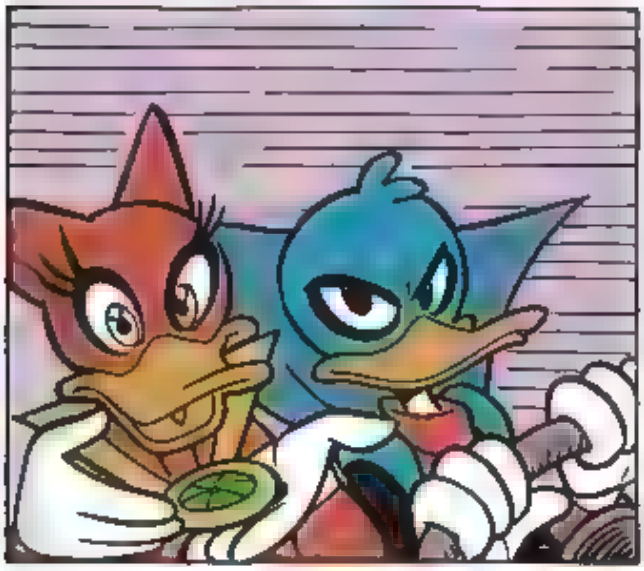
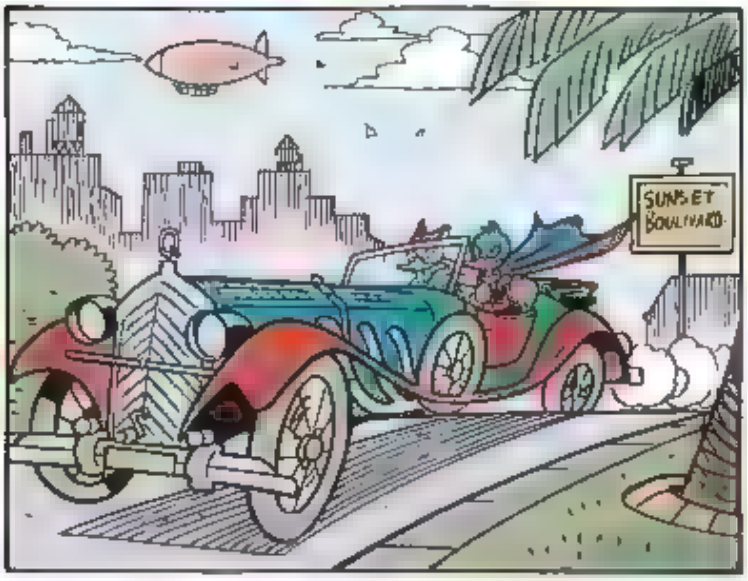
"The Emerald... it's a fake! It's been replaced!"



"But who could've done it? It's been under constant watch until Gloria Squackson wore it!"



"Then it's time to pay a little visit!"

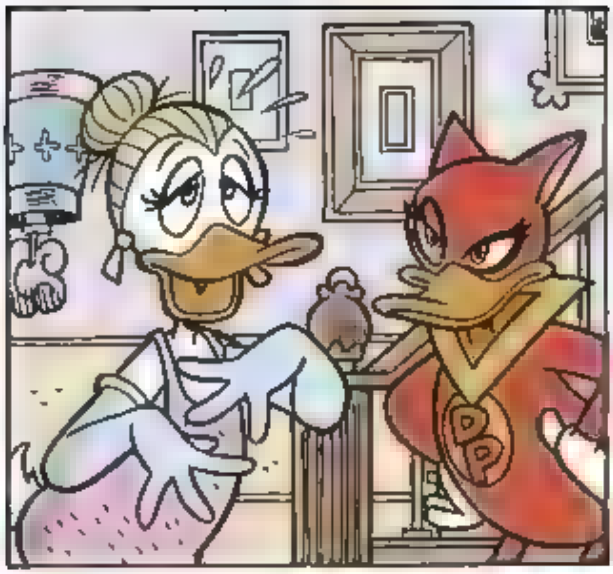
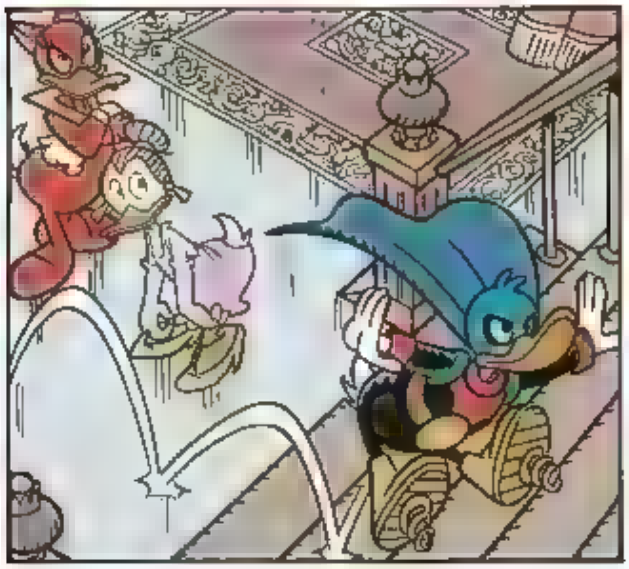
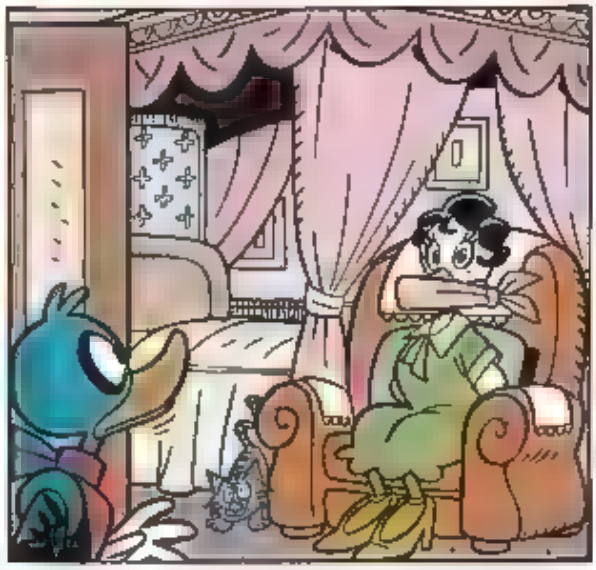
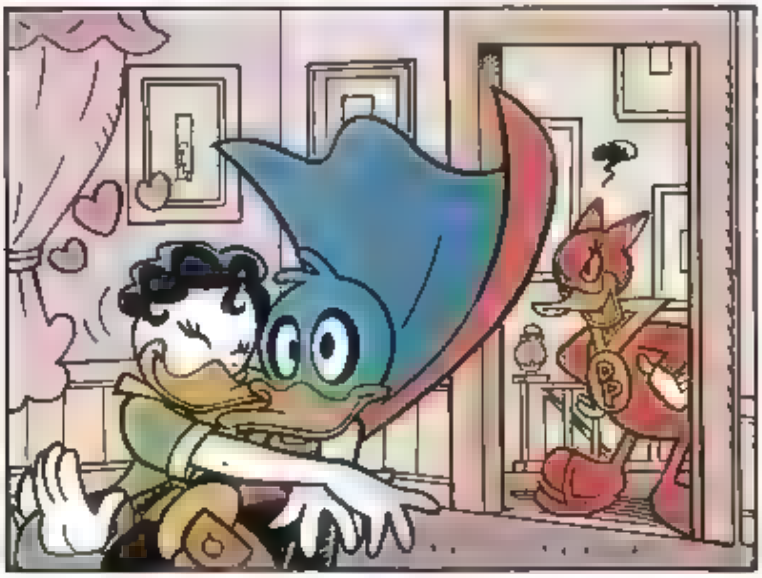
"All right, I confess! I'm not really Gloria Squackson, I'm her stunt double!"



"I impersonated her so that I could steal the Emerald! The real Gloria is upstairs, tied up."







"Easy with the thankfulness, Miss Squackson, or you'll find Dolly Paprika knows some knots of her own!"

"So you're telling me that the Emerald's thief is not Fantomallard, but your double?"

"Exactly! Right after, though, Fantomallard also stole it!"

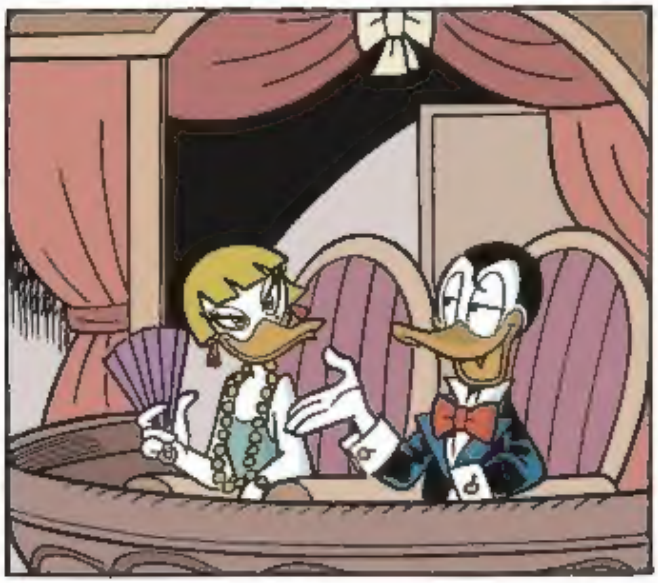
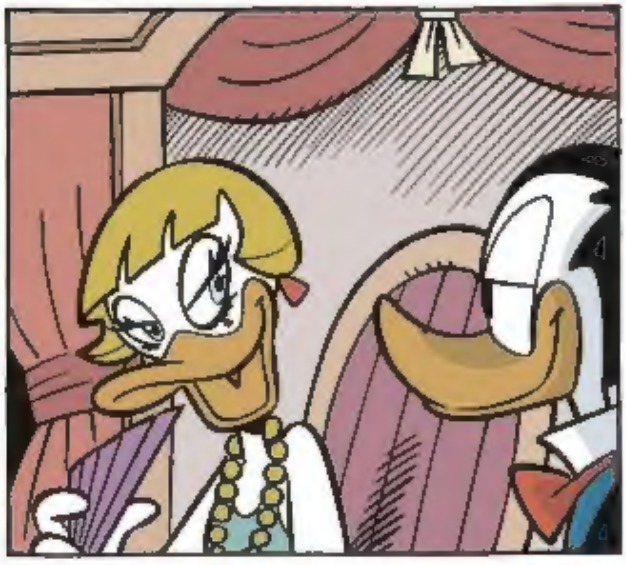
"How could you have forgotten to get his autograph? It's not like I asked you for the moon!"



"So, my dear, do you think Ducklas Fairbarks fits Fantomallard's mantle?"



"Absolutely not! Fantomallard? There's only one!"
